Sports equity monitoring

Whilst it is not compulsory that this section is completed the following paragraph explains why it is important.

Sport can and does play a major role in promoting the inclusion of all groups in society. However, inequalities have traditionally existed within sport, particularly in relation to gender, race and disability. Sport England is committed to promoting and developing sports equity, which is about fairness in sport, equality of access, recognising inequalities and taking steps to address them. By monitoring the profile of young people in sports clubs, national governing bodies of sport and Sport England can identify any issues relating to under-representation of different groups and can together develop strategies to ensure that all young people have the opportunity in the future to develop and progress in sport.

Privacy of Data

The provision of the website and any services we provide may be reliant on information provided by or on behalf of a member, so the member or guardian is responsible for ensuring that any information provided is accurate, correct and up-to-date. Any information held by the Club will be used, for example, to run the website and our club efficiently.

We may use your IP address to help identify you and help diagnose problems with our server and to administer the website.

Cookies: As with most other websites we do use cookies which are files that Web browsers place on a computer's hard drive which help us to identify whether you have visited the website previously so that we can make the experience as meaningful to you personally as is possible and to improve the website. Standing alone, cookies do not identify you personally. They merely recognise your browser. Unless you choose to identify yourself to us by registering with us, you remain anonymous to us. Cookies come in two flavours: session-based and persistent

(i) Session cookies exist only during an online session. They disappear from your computer when you close your browser software or turn off your computer

(ii) Persistent cookies remain on your computer after you have closed your browser or turned off your computer. They include such information as a unique identifier for your browser. We use persistent cookies that only we can read and use, to identify the fact that you are a website user or prior website user (whatever the case may be) and to track your use. We are especially careful about the security and confidentiality of the information stored in persistent cookies. These cookies expire after two years

(c) Users who disable their web browser's ability to accept cookies will be able to browse our Website but will / may not be able to successfully use our service.

When you give us information about another individual or organisation it is on the basis that they have agreed to this.

You are entitled to ask for a copy of your information and to correct any inaccuracies.

All members specifically agree that any information will be stored and used only in accordance with current relevant Data Protection legislation which applies within England and Wales.
